KEYWORDS

Terminology, terminology, linguistics, special words, scientific researches.

INTRODUCTION

Terminology issues have always been one of the pressing issues of linguistics. Because the definition of the role and function of terms in the lexical layers of fields allows to correctly understand the meaning and essence of the concept. The intense globalisation process taking place all over the world has not been bypassing the field of terminology. At the present time, it is necessary to recognize the fact that the study of terminological problems is being paid attention and that terminology develops as an independent direction and serves the coverage of research on national terminology and terminology. During the period of reforms and changes taking place in our country, the regulation of industrial terms during the information exchange is one of the topical issues of today's science.

THE MAIN OF THE RESULTS

Although in Uzbek linguistics a number of studies and scientific researches have been carried out related to the problems of terminology, terminology, general and private terminology, the process of regulation of terms, the lexicographic interpretation of philosophical terms in Uzbek explanatory dictionaries is one of the problems waiting for its solution. Currently, terminology serves as a means of developing scientific and technical processes. Therefore, without knowing, studying, determining the ways of formation and development of terminological systems, it will be difficult to correctly understand and distinguish the laws of development of the language. Despite several scientific studies conducted in the field of terminology in World linguistics, the definition and description of terminology remains one of the most important pressing problems.

He knows that the connection of language with society manifests itself in his lexicon. Scientific and technical progress, which takes place in the life of society, is expressed in the lexicon and terminology of the language. Terms are words or combinations of words, which include a scientific and technical process and knowledge of certain fields of science. No science field can exist without Terms. Naming and describing scientific concepts is of particular importance in various fields of science. Each field of science has its own terminological system and acts on their basis. Terminology schools, which work in the world linguistics, in particular, Vienna terminology school in Austria, Russian terminology school, Czechoslovakia's

Prague terminology school, etc., occupy an important place in the life of society, in every field of Science[1].

In Uzbek linguistics, important features and theoretical issues of terminology, terminology began to be studied at the beginning of the XX century. In the development of the terminology of the Uzbek language S.Ibrahimov and U.Tursunov's services are large[2]. The study of modern terminology systems of the Uzbek language significantly increased after the Second World War. Also many the publication of candidate dissertations, monographs, brochures, articles put the agenda of how relevant the issues of terminology are[3]. It is known that any change in society is reflected in the language. Radical deviations in the society directly create the ground for language updates, through which science fiction, technical progress and achievement cross-reference the research of terms to the front of linguistics important issues. Therefore, the definition and clarification of the term remains one of the most important problems of the world and Uzbek linguists in the center of attention. The concept of terminology is interpreted differently by scientists of different linguists.

Terminology is formed on the basis of the lexicon of a particular language and serves for the enrichment of this language. The lexicon of terms as an integral part of the universal language develops along with it, experiencing all the processes in the development of society and language. The richness of terminology is associated with the development of society and language, mainly on the account of making internal vocabulary and obtaining Vocabulary from other languages. Terminology is a special branch of linguistics that studies terms. Any changes that occur in society over the years, evolutions, innovations in the field of discovery, development and science are expressed in certain terms, as a result of which the terminological base of the language becomes richer and more developed. In other words, the entry and stagnation of all phenomena into a special expressive form in linguistic consciousness leads to the emergence of terminology in the language[4].

In linguistics, the term is interpreted differently. O.Akhmanova notes that terminology arises only when a certain science has reached a higher level of its development, that is, the term is recognized after a certain concept acquires a certain scientific expression. An important tool for distinguishing the term from a notermin is the impossibility of describing it on a scientific basis. So the main factor that determines the stability of the terminological system of this or that sphere is its regularity and regularity. Linguist scientist G.O.Vinokur describes the term as follows: quot; the term is not some kind of separate words, but words with a special function. The terminological function of such words is a phrase from Atash quot; [5]. N.A. Baskakov said that “the term is a combination of words or phrases that correspond exactly to the concept provided, have a stable meaning and interact with other terms within the framework of terminology and are characterized by a harmonized application in the same terminology”[6].

B.Golovin notes that “the term is a combination of a separately derived word or noun with management, representing a professional concept and satisfying the needs of sectoral communication within a certain profession (Science, Technology, Production, Management)”[7].

“The term is a word or combination used in the process of knowledge and mastering from the point of view of a certain profession of certain subjects and their relations, which express and formulate a professional understanding,” noted Sh. Kucimov[8]. In this regard, it should be noted that the terminological system of the language is characterized by its sectoral originality. According to T.Q. Valiyev, terminology is a scientific and technical process, specialized units reflecting knowledge in various fields of science[4]. According to S. Usmonov, one meaningful word and combination, denoting the exact name of concepts related to science, technology, agriculture and art, is called terminology[9].

X. Pricodjayeva shows the following features specific to the term:

- 1) The term is a linguistic unit, word or combination belonging to the language of production, science and technology, which is a special type of task of the universal language;
- 2) Terminology-the exact thing-the predicate, the predicate, mavhum is a specialized name of concepts;
- 3) Terminology – for a specific definition (definition) it is necessary, with its help to more accurately represent the content of the relevant concept, it is possible to clearly indicate distinctive signs, allowing to distinguish one concept from another, placing a certain concept on a specific classification line in the same neighborhood[10]. It should be noted that the terminological system of the language is characterized by its sectoral originality. From the above points of view, it is understood that the terms are a word or a combination of stagnant, which means special scientific concepts, in some there are opinions about the expression of a single concept. Hence, those who insist on different positions and interpret the concept and characteristics of terminology and terminology.

The globalisation process that is going on all over the world is not going to affect the language itself. This in turn manifests itself in the same language lexical. The globalisation period is necessary to regulate the Uzbek terminology. In the terminological system of the world, philosophical terms occupy a special place. In explanatory dictionaries, we can observe a lot of confusion about the issuance of philosophical terms. In the assignment of philosophical terms, a strict and clear order is placed.

For example, some [yun.basis-basis] 1iq.t.Basis, basis.q. base 1,2.

2. fls.ikt. The sum of the production relations that arise at a certain historical stage of the development of society. The basis is the economic system at a certain stage of the development of society. "From Gazeta".

3. geod.estr. The main line, which is very accurately measured from a certain place on the Earth's surface. The cross section of a straight line connecting the two points to which the body is observed is called the base." Astronomy" [11].

CONCLUSION

In conclude, from this it can be seen that the term bazis is given together with economic and philosophical syllables, and the interpretation of the meaning of the philosophical terminology has not been opened. In linguistics, the question of the creation, regulation, linguistic and lexicographic interpretation of a system of philosophical terms has become the focus of terminologists. Determining the position of terms in the lexical system of language is one of the pressing problems.
