INTRODUCTION

The Organization of Islamic Cooperation (OIC) is an international intergovernmental organization. It was founded at the 1st Conference of Heads of State and Government of Islamic countries (1969, Rabat, Morocco). It was founded and chartered at the 3rd Conference of Ministers of Foreign Affairs of Islamic States (1973, Jeddah, Saudi Arabia).

Currently, OIC unites a total of 55 countries based on religious commonality, including the independent Central Asian countries, as well as the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO). According to the charter of OIC, its purpose is to promote Islamic unity among member states, strengthen cooperation in economic, social, cultural, scientific and other fields, try to end racial discrimination, and colonization in all forms, establish measures to preserve peace and security, restore the rights of the Palestinian Arab people and supporting his struggle for the liberation of his land.

THE MAIN RESULTS AND FINDINGS

The Organization of Islamic Cooperation (OIC) is one of the world's most prestigious international organizations and the largest international Islamic organization. The OIC was founded on September 25, 1969 at the first meeting of the leaders of the Islamic countries in Robot, the capital of Morocco.

OIC is headquartered in Jeddah, Saudi Arabia. Originally known as the Organization of the Islamic Conference (OIC), this international organization received its current name in 2011. English, Arabic and French are the official working languages of the OIC.

The main goals and tasks of OIC:

- harmonizing ties of friendship and solidarity between member states;
- solving the problems that have arisen in the Islamic world;
- respecting the domestic laws of the states;
- protection of human rights;
- to support the economic development of the member states;

- elimination of some unfair and inappropriate information about Islam;
- is to organize scientific research with institutes in various fields.

Today, 57 countries with a population of about 2 billion are members of the OIC. This large-scale cooperation plays an important role in achieving the noble goals of preserving and developing the sacred values of Islam, strengthening solidarity among Muslim nations, ensuring sustainable development, and contributing to the development and well-being of the peoples of the member countries of the organization. is coming

The UN, Russia, Bosnia and Herzegovina, and the Central African Republic have observer status in the OIC. Uzbekistan joined this organization as an observer in October 1995 and as a full member since October 2, 1996.

It should be noted that Uzbekistan joined the new Charter of OIC on December 14, 2015. The OIC Charter was ratified by the Oliy Majlis of the Republic of Uzbekistan in April 2016.

The Uzbek side recognizes the OIC as an influential and effective forum of the countries of the Islamic world that recognize our holy religion as a factor of peace and development. Therefore, we are interested in the strengthening of this Organization and the consistent development of our mutual relations.

Official delegations of our country regularly participate in OIC summits and annual sessions of the Council of Foreign Ministers of OIC. Especially in recent years, Uzbekistan's cooperation with the OIC has become more active and has reached a new level of mutual relations.

The 43rd session of the Council of Foreign Ministers of the OIC held in Tashkent on October 18-19, 2016 was of particular importance. In his speech at the opening ceremony of this session, the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan Shavkat Mirziyoev focused on the priority tasks during his presidency of the Council of Foreign Ministers of the OIC of Uzbekistan (from October 2016 to July 2017).

As the head of state noted, the theme "Education and Enlightenment - the way to peace and creativity" is set as the main idea of the agenda of the 43rd session, which has a deep symbolic meaning. This idea is in line with the famous hadith, "Seek knowledge from the cradle to the grave". From this point of view, the initiatives put forward by Uzbekistan are directly related to the development of science and enlightenment.

The President of Uzbekistan also spoke about the development of science, spirituality and enlightenment in his speech at the First Science and Technology Summit of the OIC held in Astana (Kazakhstan) on September 10, 2017. put practical proposals on the agenda. At the moment, the noble initiatives announced by the head of the OIC from the high platforms of the OIC are being widely implemented.

It is known that on October 7-8, 2019, the 6th annual seminar of the OIC Independent Standing Commission on Human Rights on the topic "The importance of promoting and protecting youth rights in the path of building peaceful, democratic societies and sustainable development" will be held in our capital. took place. The participants of the international conference supported the initiative of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan to adopt the UN International Convention on the Rights of Youth, which he put forward at the 72nd session of the UN General Assembly.

It is no coincidence that the OIC Independent Permanent Commission on Human Rights chose the issue of youth rights for its major international conference. After all, today young people make up a large part of the population in most countries, especially in the OIC member states. Our insensitive approach to this segment of the population inevitably threatens stability and peace in our societies.

The participants of the Tashkent conference adopted the final document - the Tashkent Declaration on the Rights of youth in the member countries of the Organization of Islamic Cooperation. The declaration describes important initiatives to be implemented in the future at the international level and by OIC member countries to fully ensure the rights of young people.

Today, cooperation between Uzbekistan and OIC is steadily developing. Among other things, close relations established between the National Center of the Republic of Uzbekistan on Human Rights and the Independent Standing Commission on Human Rights of the OIC have a special place.

In this sense, we think that the online forum of the Association of Information Agencies of the OIC countries, in which representatives of the Uza participated, is important. During this virtual conference, as noted in the discussions led by Majid bin Abdullah al-Qasabi, Minister of Information of the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, Chairman of the Executive Council of the Association of National News Agencies, the need for information in the context of the pandemic is increasing sharply.

In such a complex situation, according to Majid bin Abdullah, it is not for nothing that strengthening cooperation between the members of the Association of Information Agencies of the OIC countries is more urgent than ever. Therefore, although the number of mass media is very large, news agencies today are distinguished by their truthful coverage of the topic.

Indeed, the coronavirus pandemic has once again shown the important role that factual information plays in the life of society. According to the words of the participants of the forum, exposing false information, preventing the spread of fabrications, and providing useful and continuous information to people has become a constant task of national news agencies in any precarious situation.

CONCLUSION

In conclusion, based on the above information, it can be said that this cooperation plays an important role in the development of Uzbekistan. It should be noted that friendly relations between the two countries are strengthening based on cooperation. Also, there are several agreements with Uzbekistan on this cooperation, which are expected to be implemented in the future and achieve great results. And we believe that this cooperation will bring great opportunities to Uzbekistan in the future.
